

Draw and Paint Horses!

Draw and paint horses in landscape for five days in April Workshop taught by
Elin Pendleton, AAEA, WAOW

April 11-15, 2011

Come for Five days in Beautiful California

Draw and learn to see horse anatomy from live models, including one of the top Arabian stallions in the USA!

Learn composition in landscape painting literally “from the ground up”.

Paint using Elin’s famous Color System to get the right time of day, every time!

Studio days and outdoor sketching/photo reference days, literally ten-hour days.

Intense instruction on basics and advanced design, anatomy and color.

Individualized instruction on your subject matter or from materials in the workshop.

Elin is a full member of the American Academy of Equine Art and her work has been featured nationally in major shows and publications. Her race paintings have been used on VIP cards at Del Mar Race Track and in publicity for the racing world. She is a noted instructor of merit and an excellent teacher of painting and drawing in all media. Her studio is located inside a nature preserve, surrounded by wildlife and gorgeous April wildflowers.

Give yourself the gift of the knowledge you need for better paintings. Elin guarantees you’ll see improvement in your work right away, and will continue to use the information after you leave the workshop.

Visit her web site for more information:

<http://www.elinart.com/pages/workshops.html>

or call the American Academy of Equine Art

(859) 281-6031

or call Elin Pendleton’s Studio at

(951) 742-7429

